—A young gentleman, wearing a gray suit, straw hat, and a love of a dark, silky mustache, calling himself W. E. Cassels, of New York, recently spent a few days at the Peabody hotel in this city, whence he departed suddenly and mysteriously upon intimation that a small deposit of money would inspire more confidence in him. Investigation of a new traveling-bag which he left behind induces the belief that he is agent for some stone-quarry paving company. Hotel produces the belief that he is agent for some stone-quarry paving company. Hotel proprietors generally are notified to keep a look-out for this absent-minded young man, as it is possible that this forgetfulness in leaving his samples may be a habit. Since writing the above we learn that Mr. Cassels subsequently paid a visit to the Worsham house, having with him a new traveling-bag, the exact counterpart of that left at the Peabody.

Many who are Suffering From the effects of the warm weather, and are debilitated, are advised by physicians to take moderate amounts of whisky two or three times during the day. In a little while those who adopt this advice frequently in-crease the number of "drinks," and in time become confirmed inebriates. A beverage which will not create thirst for intoxicating liquors, and which is intended; especially for the benefit of debilitated persons, whether at home or abroad, is Dr. Schenck's sea-weed tonic, containing the juices of many median appetite for the intoxicating cup. The nourishing and the life supporting properties of many valuable natural productions con-tained in it, and well known to medical men, have a most strengthening influence. A single bottle of the tonic will demonstrate its valuable qualities. For debility arising from sickness, over-exertion, or from any cause whatever, a wineglassful of sea-weed tonic, taken after meals, will strengthen the stom-ach, and create an appetite for wholesome food. To all who are about leaving their homes, we desire to say that the excellent effects of Parchenck's seasonable remedies—sea-weed once and mandrake pills—are particularly evident when taken by those who are injuriously affected by a change of water and diet. B. J. Black, Secretary, Memphis, Tennessee:

DEAR S.R.—Your favor of the tenth instant has been received. My health is so bay I am compelled to leave for the Springs to-morrow, and do not think I shall return by the thirit-first instant, but my son will be here and attend the reunion. Nothing would afford me more pleasure than to meet the members of the old Seventh cavalry, whom I once led. Yours truly,

Having learned that their gallant old leader in days of yore, whom the boys all love so much, was very ill, it was resolved that the collowing telegram be sent him by the secretary, viz:

Among the objects to be attained, of immediate and pressing necessity, is a reformation of our municipal government. Our city has drifted deeper and deeper into debt with the recurrence of each succeeding year. Though vast sums have been levied in the shape of taxes, and many thousands of fraudulent or illegal debts created, yet we have little or nothing to show for it. Our streets are dilapidated, our polleemen and firemen and laborers in the employ of the city are unpaid and forced to sell the recriticates of dues at a fearful discount to buy bread; the interest on the city debt unpaid and accumulating; the city pressed with writs and mandamus at the suit of these manifold evils, all industrial enterprise is paralyzed and the workingman reduced to the extremity of a bure existence. Another crying evil which demands implacing the entire burdens of government upon a few of the people. We demand a reduction of taxes, thus placing the entire burdens of government upon a few of the people. We demand a reduction of taxes, and and a rigid collection of those which are levied, past, and right collection of the last iffeen years of the State and national governments a steady, persistent and uniform discrimination in favor of non taxerance, bootheiders and forced achievement and endurance, more brillianting the cleir devotion to eachlevement and endurance, more brillianting the cleir burdens of fraudulated.
